

As of March 16, 2011, 49 states convened for legislative session with 14 bills in 11 states referring in some manner to a health cooperative, co-op or other related term, including health insurance cooperative or health care cooperative. The seven bills in six states provided below attempt to study or promote the creation of health co-ops in the state.

All 50 states convene for session in 2011 with Louisiana scheduled to begin April 25, and Virginia, Wyoming, Kentucky, Utah, and West Virginia the first to adjourn from regular session. Only New Jersey and Virginia carry over bills from 2010 to 2011. In an effort to implement provisions of the federal Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act, states will consider a variety of measures concerning co-ops throughout the current legislative session; however, few will likely become enacted.
